

Gmail: Sending, replying, attachments, and printing

Welcome to Gmail. This document will give you a quick overview of how Gmail works with you to make your life easier. Let's get started!

Your Inbox

When you sign in to Gmail, you'll see a list of any messages you've received in your Inbox. Here's an example:

The screenshot shows a Gmail inbox with a search bar at the top, a 'Mail' dropdown menu, and a 'COMPOSE' button. The inbox list includes:

Unread messages are in bold. To open a message, simply click it in your message list.

About conversations

By default, replies to messages are grouped into conversations. A conversation keeps all messages in a thread together, which makes it easier to keep track of them and reduces Inbox clutter. Here's how a conversation appears in your Inbox:

The screenshot shows a conversation thread with two messages:

- Sondra, me, Murthy (3) - Support Widget - next steps - Hi everyone, (Nov 29)
- Alice, me (2) - New website design - Thanks Alice. It looks great (Nov 29)

Note: The number of messages in a conversation appears to the right of senders' names.

Here's what an opened conversation looks like:

Note: You can control whether messages are grouped into conversations: Click the Gear icon and then Settings in the upper-right corner of your Inbox and, on the General tab, scroll to Conversation View.

- If Conversation View is off, new messages won't be grouped into conversations, and any existing conversations are ungrouped into separate messages.
- If Conversation View is on, you can't separate the messages in a conversation. However, if you want to send a reply but don't want it to be added to the conversation, you can simply change the subject line in your reply.

Compose a message

1. In the pane on the left, click COMPOSE.

2. A new message opens near the lower-right of your Gmail window. To minimize the new message click . Hold the Shift key and click  to pop out the message into a new window. You can resize the message window and move it around the screen this way.
